No Damage Done To Oil Refinery In Shelling By Submarine Is Report

By RICHARD ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BALBOA, C. Z., Feb. 17.—Swift American bombers today were believed to have sunk at least one of the Nazi U-boats that raided Aruba in the Netherlands West Indies.

Belief that one of the enemy submarines was sent to the bottom was expressed by Gen. Frank M. Andrews, Caribbean defense commander, who was directly in the line of fire when the raid occurred but who later returned here by plane.

Two Small Tankers Sunk

Two men were killed, 21 were missing and 18 were injured and given hospital treatment after the enemy U-boat torpedoed and sank two small tankers, neither of them American.

A United States seagoing tanker was torpedoed but not seriously damaged and no one aboard her was injured.

Another vessel was hit off Willemstad, Curacao.

New Defense Moves Made In Australia

By LEE VAN ATTA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MELBOURNE, Feb. 17.—The Australian government took urgent measures to buttress its defenses today as the nation was informed that Japanese planes have been active over the Timor Sea near Port Darwin on the commonwealth's northern coast.

Prime Minister John Curtin at Sidney announced his government had directed the war cabinet to take all necessary steps for complete mobilization of the people and resources for Australian defense.

"This means clearly and specifically," Curtin said, "that every human being in the country is now at the service of the government to work for the defense of Australia."

Revelation that the Japs are operating against shipping in the Timor Sea, brought still closer home the possibility of an early Nipponese invasion of Australia itself.

Registration On Monday About 6,000 In County

Three Boards Report Totals But Ellwood Board Figures Not Complete

DRAWING TO TAKE PLACE IN MARCH

With registration points conveniently located throughout the county to facilitate the work, yesterday's registration of men for military service between the ages of 20 and 44, in the third registration, was carried out without a hitch and put around 6,000 more Lawrence county men on the roles as available for military service.

The staffs of the various boards today began the task of sorting out the names and filing them for the drawing which will take place some time in March, when they will be given their serial numbers and call numbers.

Some of the board officials felt the registration was a little light, and had anticipated a higher number would register.

No Ellwood Board Report

Figures for all of the boards were complete except County Board One, with headquarters in Ellwood City. Their registration returns were not all in, their district being scattered throughout the entire eastern section of the county. In addition, they failed to receive word from national headquarters to release the figures. On the basis of returns from the other districts, it is believed their registration would run close to 1,700, which would make over 6,000 registered.

The figures for the three other boards reveal that 1,523 were registered by City Board 2, the largest of the three districts reporting, with 1,499 from City Board 1, and 1,341 from County Board 2.

In Ellwood City, it was stated that

Record Fund Is Approved In Committee

By GRIFFING BANCROFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Calling for concrete realization of President Roosevelt's production goals to beat the Axis, the House appropriations committee today approved a record $32,000,000,000 war bill, providing in a single measure more money than was appropriated by the 1918 World War Congress in its entire session.

The new bill, largest by far in all history, supplies the funds to bring into reality the chief executive's plan to produce by the end of this year 60,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, 20,000 anti-aircraft guns and 8,000,000 tons of merchant shipping.

Bringing war appropriations since the Japanese sneak attack on December 7 to $81,000,000,000—almost twice what was appropriated during two full years of the last war—the measure also provides huge sums for intensified aid to all nations fighting Axis aggression.

"I believe it is possible that this counter-offensive will begin at a time that will surprise the Japanese. If there is true cooperation between Australia, Britain, America and the Dutch the blows of our forces will soon start resounding."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—With enemy activity ominously increasing, Gen. Douglas MacArthur today reported to the war department that the Japanese had mercilessly attacked a defenseless Philippine refugee village, killing 18 women and five children and wounding 22 others, all Filipinos.

The raid occurred on the village of Cabcaben and was conducted by Japanese bombers. It came as enemy aircraft and heavy batteries set the tempo for what was believed to be the curtain-raiser for an all-out assault against Gen. MacArthur and his Philippine defenders.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill refused flatly today to appoint a separate minister of defense and thereby turn over to anyone else part of the power he now wields.

Churchill's refusal to relinquish the defense portfolio, which he holds in addition to the premiership, was revealed by British authorities.

Situation Too Perilous Says Prime Minister Churchill To Commons

NEW LOSSES ARE ALSO FORECAST

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 17.—With a prediction of "new and terrible" losses in the Far East, Prime Minister Winston Churchill today again stoutly defended his conduct of the war, announced a sweeping inquiry into the Scharnhorst-Gneisenau channel escape and flatly refused to surrender part of his powers by appointing a minister of defense.

The Far Eastern situation is so perilous, Churchill told a clamoring, querulous House of Commons, that discussion of it at present would give important information to the enemy. He freely admitted that new "forfeits" will be added to the heavy losses already suffered.

Churchill promised full debate next week and called upon the house to throw him out of office if it decides he and his government are incompetent.

For the present, he said, parliament and country must face up to the extreme gravity of affairs and reach a sane and proper evaluation of the situation.

By M. M. HARDINGE

RANGOON, Feb. 17.—Throngs of natives and whites moved westward out of Rangoon today, taking their possessions with them, as the Japanese hordes attacking from the east pressed closer.

British military communiques indicated the Japanese invading Burma from Thailand have pushed 30 miles closer to Rangoon, until they are now within 75 miles of this city of 500,000, the southern terminus of the Burma road supply line to China.

The British and Imperial forces defending Burma have fallen back from the Salween river defense shield to the Bilin river, some 30 miles farther westward, it was said.

Thaton, important city on the Martacan Rangoon railway was thus conceded to have fallen into the hands of the Japs.

The British withdrawal was believed to have been dictated by the policy of concentrating troops as far as possible in one strong position and avoiding the danger that small parties might be overwhelmed by the numerically superior enemy.

Special Session Convenes Today

Legislature To Formally Assemble At 3 O'Clock This Afternoon

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—After an absence of seven months, the General Assembly reconvened today in special session to enact a new congressional reapportionment law and to consider problems arising out of the war.

Gov. Arthur H. James was expected to issue a supplemental call prior to the session's opening including additional subjects on which legislation may be enacted, such as unemployment compensation and defense measures. The original call included only two subjects, congressional reapportionment and postponement of the effective date of the new parole act beyond June 1, due to the war.

The politically-divided legislature picked up where it had left off on July 17, 1941, when the regular biennial session was adjourned with no agreement reached on redistricting the state. Now it will pass upon a measure drawn up by a bi-partisan committee and approved beforehand by Democratic and Republican leaders. Its passage appears assured.

Both houses will meet separately at 3 p. m. for the formal opening of the session and then recess until 8:30 p. m., when they will reassemble in joint session in the house chamber to hear an address by Gov. Arthur H. James. The evening ceremonies will be broadcast.

Members of both parties were slated to caucus shortly before the opening of the session, the Republicans, who control the senate, at noon, and the Democrats, who dominate the house, an hour later.

Tentative Date For Third Draft Lottery Is Middle Of March

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—With nearly 27,000,000 men enrolled for service in the nation's armed forces, selective service officials today set the middle of March as the tentative date for the third draft lottery to determine the order in which the 9,000,000 men between the ages of 20 and 45 will be called to take their part in the battle to crush the Axis.

National draft headquarters reported that the registration of the third group of American manhood was completed throughout the country last night with but little difficulty and that early returns indicated that the number enrolled will be close to the expected 9,000,000.

There is no intention to call any of the 20 to 45 age group for service until the 21 to 35 classes have been exhausted, according to Washington officials. Those given order numbers in the third lottery will be placed at the end of the lists previously assigned order induction numbers.

Meanwhile selective service headquarters announced plans to end most deferments for eye and teeth defects by relaxation of physical standards. Local draft boards have been notified of the new eye and teeth standards and ordered to reclassify all class 1-B and 4-F men deferred because of eye or teeth defects.

Claim Plane Production Is Impeded

Priority Orders Affect Situation

Aviation Corporations Assert Munitions Board Fails To Give Highest Priority

"BRASS HATS" IN CAPITAL BLAMED

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—American aviation corporations today warned war production officials that airplane manufacture will fall behind the goal set by President Roosevelt because the army and navy munitions board has failed to give aircraft the highest possible priority rating.

Making of airplanes, it was charged, is being put behind construction of battleships, light and medium tanks, guns and even some types of motor trucks.

An independent check of official war production priority lists revealed that battleships, light and medium tanks and guns have been given A-A-1 ratings; four-motored bombers and navy aircraft have been given A-1-B ratings, and other military aircraft have been tagged with an A-1-D.

American aviation, a trade magazine, in commenting on the situation in its current issue, says:

Blame "Brass Hats"

"At a time when the press, the president and the united nations are placing the greatest stress on the immediate need for combat airplanes, the American people would be given a jolt far worse than Pearl Harbor if they knew the manner in which material to go into airplanes has been sidetracked and scuttled by brass hats in Washington."

Army officials, however, countered that statement with a declaration that the heavy bomber and combat plane program is coming along "satisfactorily."

Many aviation companies, it was learned on unmpechble uthorty, have told war production czar Donald Nelson that they must have higher priority ratings if they are to meet President Roosevelt's goal of 60,000 planes this year and 125,000 in 1943.

BATTLE OF BURMA HAS REACHED MOST SEVERE CRISIS YET

troops were said to be moving toward the front, and it was believed that most of the air and naval reinforcements intended for the defense of Singapore are now in Burma.)

But the rapidity of the Japanese advance was not underestimated in official circles here. It was reliably reported that certain units of the Japanese have advanced as far as 60 miles in the last six days.

A communique indicated that the whole coastal area extending from the Bilin south to Martaban, defended by the British in savage fighting for the past two weeks, has been abandoned to the enemy.

"Our forces were withdrawn Sunday from their positions in the Shwegun Bridge-Thaton area," said the communique, "and are now occupying more concentrated positions along the line of the Bilin river, bringing our right (southern) flank about 40 miles north of Moulmein at a point where the Bilin flows into the Gulf of Martaban."

"This operation was not interferred with by the enemy," the communique added, indicating tha it was a strategic withdrawal conducted well beyond range of enemy gunfire.

Voluntary Evacuation

Meanwhile, the ordinarily active city of Rangoon began to resemble more and more a deserted village as shutters were closed and both business and dwelling houses left vacant.

The masses of people moving from the city in a "voluntary evacuation" increased in size.

It was generally conceded that the battle of Burma, in which Japan is trying to choke off the Burma Road and perhaps push on to India, has reached its most severe crisis to date.

The mouth of the Bilin river, where the northernmost Japanese units are presumably established, lies only 70 land miles along the Moulmein-Rangoon railway from Pegu, vital terminus of the Burma Road.

Pushing up the railroad, the Japanese might capture Pecu and thus place themselves in a position not only to cut off Burma Road traffic but also to menace Rangoon, informed quarters declared.

(Rangoon lies 40 miles south of Pegu.)

In the air the British continued to strike with vigor at the advancing Japanese. British bombers blasted Jap positions at Paan on the now-abandoned Salween river front, a communique announced. But there were no further details.

Both England and Germany experienced some temporary unemployment during transition to maximum war output, says the Department of Commerce.

sunk between Aruba and Curacao early yesterday morning, including Venezuelan and Brazilian tankers. Official quarters at Caracas made no comment on this report.

(A Rome radio broadcast heard by CBS said that "an audacious incursion was made against the Island of Aruba in the Antilles by a German submarine which sank three petrol tankers and which succeeded in shelling a refinery of the Standard Oil Company.)

Altogether, four tankers were torpedoed off the shores of the Dutch West Indies, according to reports from Willemstad, Curacao. In addition to the three tankers hit off Aruba, a fourth was torpedoed off Willemstad and severely damaged.

First Attack In Sector

It was the war's first attack on territory along the eastern coast of the Americas. After torpedoing the ships a submarine sent shells whistling toward Aruba Island, garrisoned by United States troops and site of a large Standard Oil refinery.

A large oil slick appeared on the surface of the water and bubbles rose after American bombers attacked the submarine, Gen. Andrews said.

"And we hope it sunk," he added.

Gen. Andrews was spending the night at Aruba when the raid occurred and shells from the submarine passed over the hut in which he was quartered.

So severe was the attack that many persons were thrown from their beds in rest houses which were located only a few hundred yards from the spot where the two tankers were sunk, eye-witnesses said.

Target of the attack was the Standard Oil Refinery at Aruba, but no harm was done there.

Nazi U-boats

When the two small lake tankers were sent to the bottom, flames shot into the sky. Screams of the crew members, caught in the flaming oil that spread over the water for a quarters of a mile, could be heard on shore, witnesses declared.

An 18-foot torpedo, found on the beach where it had failed to explode, indicated definitely that the attacking submarines were German.

Within minutes after the attack began, American planes took to the air and went after the submarines. It was indicated patrols in search of the remaining U-boats are continuing.

army, it was announced. Previously an inductee had to have a minimum of six masticating and six incisor teeth, "all of which were opposed."

Re-classify Some

Now the inductee will only have to possess enough teeth—natural or artificial—to masticate the army fare.

The new draft regulation reads:

"For general military service in all branches:

"Registrants who have no disqualifying physical defects except a lack of the required number of teeth as set forth in paragraph 31A, mobilization regulations, 1-9, August 31, 1940, when, in the opinion of the examining physician, they are well nourished, of good musculature, are free of gross dental infections, and have sufficient teeth (natural or artificial) to subsist on the army ration."

Eye requirements now read:

"For general military service in all noncombatant branches:

"Registrants whose visual acuity is below 20/100 but not below 20/200 in each eye without glasses if correctible to 20/40 in each eye. (The actual possession of suitable glasses by an individual is not required for his acceptance under these standards.)"

In its memorandum to local boards, announcing these new army standards, national headquarters stated:

NEW DEFENSE MOVES MADE IN AUSTRALIA

planes yesterday for more than an hour, but that not a single casualty was suffered by the fleet.)

Simultaneously, fall of Singapore brought urgent new demands from Australia for all possible aid in the Pacific war theatre. Commonwealth authorities looked to the United States for more tanks and planes.

At its meeting today and tomorrow, the cabinet was expected to adopt a "no surrender" policy and also map plans for applying the "scorched earth" principle wherever the Japanese may land.

In addition, plans were being rushed to "scorch the Japs."

To Hold To Last Man

Authorities made it clear that in defense of this island continent, the government will expect the defenders to hold their strong points to the last man.

Anticipated measures include a still wider call-up of manpower for military service, revision of occupations listed as reserved from military duty and drastic restrictions on motion pictures, racing and organized sports.

All men and women of suitable age are expected to do some useful military work and undergo training in addition to their normal work.

According to the Melbourne Sun, the new defense measures will be partly military and partly economic, and the system of government will be virtual dictatorship by an executive with general supervision by the federal parliament.

Today's cabinet meeting at Sydney will be followed tomorrow by a meeting of the war advisory council. Parlament will hold a secret session on Friday. At the meeting Curtin probably will reveal latest developments to the members and the measures of the government to meet them.

Before leaving Canberra for Sydney, Curtin said Australia's immediate problem no longer is that of contributing to the worldwide war, but one of resistance to the invasion of Australia.

Full Mobilization

Sydney, Feb. 17.—The Australian cabinet in special session today decided upon full mobilization of Australia's man-power and material resources in preparation for last-ditch war against Japan.

Launching an appeal for a $114,000,000 war loan, Prime Minister John Curtin said that every man, machine, factory, plant and every bit of money would be called for by the government as needed in the war effort.

"That is clear-cut. That is definite," he said.

"The enemy is on a totalitarian basis and uses everything. This nation therefore must go on a totalitarian basis.

"The people will be given no time to argue about the past. I am not going to indulge in any post-mortems and I am not going to permit post-mortems or disputations about the past. There is not going to be any chance to argue about whether things are done rightly or wrongly six days, six months or even six years ago.

"The chapter of controversy has ended in Australia."

DELINQUENCY RISES WITH WAR

REPORTS from Great Britain that juvenile delinquency has increased 50 per cent since the beginning of the war may contain some useful lessons for this country.

Among the assigned causes of this phenomenon are some with which it is not easy to deal, such as the necessary relaxation of parental supervision.

Fathers are called into military service and numerous mothers either take up factory work as a mean of self-support or enroll in voluntary organizations. In either case the children are not as carefully tended as in normal times.

Another fruitful cause of delinquency is stated to be the ease with which youths can obtain employment at unusually high rates of pay; sudden affluence subjects them to temptations which many are unable to resist.

But there is yet another cause which fortunately can be corrected, namely the closing of schools. It is beginning to be realized in Great Britain that most of the closed schools ought to have been kept open, even if with reduced attendance and reduced teaching staffs. Many Britishers believe also that it was an error to draft young school-masters into the army, and to encourage women teachers to desert their profession for "war work." There are few kinds of war work more important than taking care of the rising generation.

WHERE INCOME ROSE

One of the clearest statistical portraits of this country's economic system as it has been affected by the war may be seen in the latest figures on income payments, those for last December. Compare them with corresponding figures for the same month of 1940: The total of salaries and wages paid in the United States exceed five and one-half billion dollars, or $1,011,000,000 more than in December, 1940.

Where did the largest increase occur? Salaries and wages in all industry went up about 21 per cent. Salaries and wages on governmental pay rolls went up 26 per cent. Dividends and interest recorded in December were below those for the same month of 1940.

One of the most interesting spurts in income, however, is recorded for agriculture. The adjusted index figure for cash income from farm marketing last December stood 57 per cent higher than the figure for December, 1940.

MILLIONS MORE REGISTERED

Something like 10,000,000 have probably been added to the selective service rolls in the latest national registration, though the exact total will probably not be made public. This includes all youths who were 20 on or before December 31 of last year and men not in the previous draft who were not 45 on February 16. Men previously registered did not have to register again.

By this new registration ten years were added to the range of potential draftees—the twentieth year and the nine years from 36 to 44, inclusive. All such registrants, who have no grounds for deferment and who pass the physical and mental tests, are liable to service with the armed forces of their country.

Draft officials say there is no intention of inducting men who are parents into the armed service, at least until the Army has reached a total of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 men and the addition of such man power becomes a necessity. Neither, at the outset, is it the intention to call very many in the 36-44 class.

SPEEDING THE SHIPBUILDING JOB

Following the pattern set by the appointment of Lieutenant General Knudsen as the Army's production chief, the President has designated Admiral Emory S. Land, already supervising the program, to boss the tremendous task of turning out 8,000,000 tons of merchant ships this year and 10,000,000 more in 1943.

Virtually all of the ships planned for this year are ordered, many of them the easily and rapidly constructed "Liberty" vessels of 14,500 tons each. These are designed for mass production, with extensive use of welding, simplification of many features and pre-fabrication far inland of large sections of decks, bulkheads and other parts for assembly on the ways..

This vast program, for which an additional $9,000,000,000 has just been requested by the President, is one of the critical tests of our war effort; of vital importance not only for feeding and supplying Allied nations but for any effort to carry this war into enemy territory.

Achievements already chalked up in American shipyards promise the accomplishment of our huge tonnage plans. Admiral Land has a tough job, but on the record he is the man to drive it through on time and thereby provide the means of transporting huge quantities of planes, tanks and munitions where they will do us the most good and the enemy the most harm.

TEACHER! TEACHER!

When Booth Tarkington won laurels with "The Gentleman from Indiana," a novel of Washington life of the "gay nineties," he little dreamed that the Hoosier state would send to the capital decades later a schoolmaster who would attempt to regulate the lives of tens of thousands of women government clerks.

But a first-term Republican in the house from the state and party that furnished to the national scene such adroit politicos at opposite extremes of temperatures as Charles Warren Fairbanks and Sunny Jim Watson, seriously proposed a 10 o'clock curfew for the gals, and now he is dodging written or oral brickbats.

Of course when a high school principal in good old Jackson county tells the girls what to do, they do it—or else—even if it is a question of leaving off lipstick. Rep. Earl Wilson is willing that government workers shall decorate themselves—what he objects to is their staying up so late that they have to take time out in the morning on arriving at the office to put on their makeup. He is for a busy, busy day for all girls in the government offices.

It just happens that the government girls never heard of congressmen prescribing a 40-hour week for themselves, and they accordingly insist that after monotonous routine in their government work they are entitled to a little fun at night. So they are writing in to let Mr. Wilson know about it in terms that are sometimes earburning.

The Indiana representative has already discovered that he cannot change human nature. Nevertheless, when congress takes a recess, he'll have a good experience yarn to narrate to his fellow Lions Club members at Vallonia.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOW SCHOOLS CAN BUILD STRONG BODIES

Very few of our young people in high school and college get sufficient physical training for building strong healthy bodies. Nor have most children in our upper elementary grades and junior high schools been afforded a reasonable amount of body-building exercise.

The directed physical training which children do get at school is limited, in most parts of the United States, to exercises indoors, even when the weather is good, the sun is shining and the temperature is 50 or above. While a few schools need more playground space, most need to use the space they have. Ever so many school and college playgrounds are vacant for weeks on end during bright and comfortable weather.

All this has been going on for years in our schools and colleges while youths in the nations now attempting to destroy America have been trained to be physically strong. This lack of adequate physical exercise at school and college is over the years when youth are normally getting less exercise and spending more time in study.

No Walking Now

This lack of good physical exercise has developed during a period when walking to school, or anywhere else, has become an almost unknown practice. High school and college students drive cars to school or they and younger youths and children are hauled by school busses or on common public carriers. What percentage of our youth in high school walk as much as a mile to school? What percentage of our elementary children walk as far as half a mile?

Exclusive of the few on ball and track teams and the added few who engage half-heartedly in contests within the school or college, what physical training in college, high school or grades for strong body-building is comparable to the setting up exercises which our young men now receive in army or navy training centers?

Not Play, But Work

Why have directed exercises for all pupils and students known to be essential for building strong and healthy bodies almost wholly disappeared in schools and colleges? The answer is in the philosophy of education which has guided those responsible for physical education, the theory that everything must be immediately motivated, must primarily be play, must not savor of effort imposed by those directing it. Moreover, it must put the individual first, except when the play spirit motivates cooperation and group effort. Setting up exercises, as required of all the armed forces under training, are not matters of games. They are work; hard, serious work.

The World and the Mud Puddles

CARRY IT THROUGH

There is such a thing as being penny wise and pound foolish. Our president has spent money very lavishly; that is, he has asked Congress to appropriate the money with which to spend lavishly, and Congress has complied with his request. It is unnecessary to call attention to the various purposes for which literally billions of the taxpayers' money has been spent rather absurdly by the president.

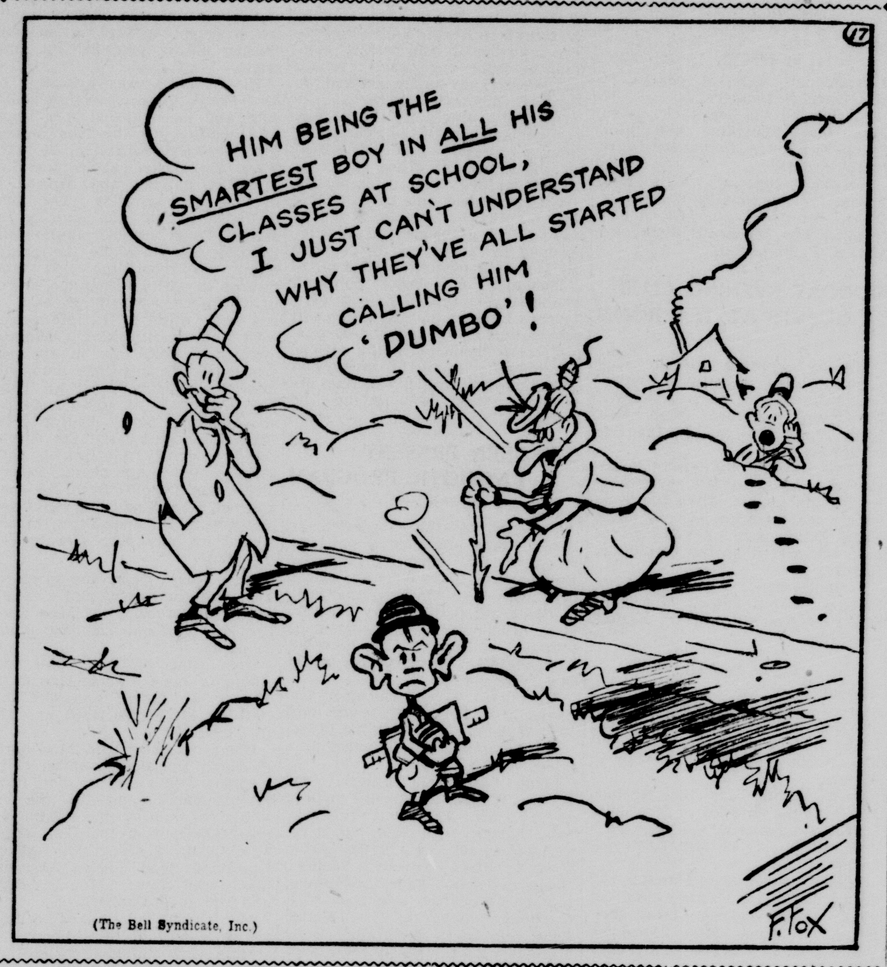

Now the president has asked Congress to reform certain of its old practices, for in every Congress it is estimated that more than two thousand bills to pay private personal claims are introduced and some four hundred pass. Further, it is computed that the passage of every such bill costs the country two hundred dollars, and sometimes more than the amount of the claim. The president believes that Congress wastes its time and the people's money in this manner, while the time of the president is also wasted in the study of these bills, for nearly one-third of the president's vetoes are directed against these bills for claims.

Now, the members of the House of Representatives do love their power and are very reluctant to surrender even the customs that may be considered a nuisance and a waste of money and a waste of time. The president, also in his message, recalled that the 76th Congress passed more than one hundred bills to build bridges or lengthen the time in which their construction must begin, and the president suggests to Congress that they might very well leave bridge building to the secretary of war. Well, of course, in time of war Congress should not waste time, but Congress should devote some time to lopping a few billions off the appropriations asked for by the president, for the preservation of what he calls, "social security." We could get along very well today without any WPA's, AAA's and many of the other money spending bureaus. It might peeve the president very much if Congress did do this, for these thousands of dollars spent for "social security" means thousands of dollars spent to continue the rule of the New Deal. Let the president and Congress today devote their attention entirely to the preservation of the nation and turn the money appropriated by Congress for the sole purpose of strengthening the Army, the Navy, the air forces and the Marines and remove every danger it is possible to remove of sabotage by those in sympathy with the Axis powers.

"But what do you think?"

"Ain't any use think'."

"Well, you're a funny boy," said his aunt. "When will you know?"

"In half an hour."

"And how will you know?"

"Well, that's easy. If I ain't sick in half an hour, I'll be sorry I didn't take more; and if I'm sick I'll be sorry I took so much. That's the only way to tell that I know of."

SHOULD CHILDREN BE SPANKED?

"I have a childless chum who insists that children should never be spanked. She thinks that such treatment does no good but much harm . . . that it makes a child resentful and does not eliminate her faults. How else, in your opinion, is it possible to train a child?"—E. D. M.

Answer: All living creatures—animals, children and adult humans—respond to gentleness and kindness, both of which, in child training, are more effective than spanking and scolding. True, there are stubborn, wilful children who need severe treatment. How shall such a child be taught to control its temper and its pettishness? Not by whippings, I insist. Such corporal punishment, even if gently administered, may force obedience from a child but will leave it cowed and intimidated. Most whippings are administered with vengeance by an angered parent. This form of punishment will fill the child's mind with resentment and hatred, not soon forgotten.

Deprivation is the best form of punishment for the disobedient child. The little girl who is sullen or stubborn should be sent to her room and deprived of all company until she promises to behave. I know from my own experience that this is, in a child's opinion, a severe and very efficacious punishment.

The small boy who cannot behave properly at table should be forced to eat alone until he learns that he must behave. Training by reward is an excellent alternative for punishment by deprivation. It is far better to have a child obey pleasantly and willingly than reluctantly and grudgingly as though acting under duress.

WHY HE TOOK THE PENNY

Andy was a simple minded old man who lived in a little Scotch village. His townsmen delighted in showing him off to visitors by offering him two coins, a big copper penny and a little silver sixpence. The point to the performance was that Andy always took the penny.

"Don't you know the difference between a penny and a sixpence?" asked a curious American tourist one day.

"Aye, surely I ken the difference between the penny and the sixpence," said Andy, "but if I took the sixpence once they'd never offer me either again. So I keep right on taking the penny."

Public Asks—Where Are Spies In War?
Feel That Some Should Be Under Arrest
Are Supposed To Be Part Of Every War

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb 17.—The truth is that we WANT some spies, according to some few congressional critics of our anti-espionage activities, such as those of the Dies committee and various other investigatorial bodies.

These commentators don't contend that enemy agents operating among us, oughtn't to be detected and dealt with up to a maximum of their deserts. Their opinion is however, that the public considers spying one of wartime's incidentals and feels that we're entitled to our fair share of it and are being neglected unless it's provided by the folk we're in arms against.

It's spoken of as similar to the popular demand for our due allowance of war's hardships and sacrifices. People were expecting 'em, they're rather slow in starting to pinch and there's a deal of wondering what's the matter with 'em. In short, participation in the conflict isn't as thrilling yet as had been anticipated and there's a good bit of impatience evident, on our citizenry's part, to have the excitement start.

Spies are supposed to be part of it.

Daylight saving, called "war time" by President Roosevelt, is another part—not particularly sensational, but proclaimed nationally, and a nuisance, according to my personal idea. To save my life, I can't see why it wouldn't have been just as effective to bid everybody get up an hour earlier in the morning, without moving our clock hands ahead, but probably it would have been more prosaic than it was to defy sunrise and sunset.

Plenty of Commotion

There's been enough commotion over the Office of Civilian Defense's inclusion of glamour boys and girls in its setup, anyway.

Of course the right way would have been to put 'em on a $1-per-year basis. No fault could have been found with that. Putting 'em on salaries running up into three or four annual thousands each was what made their employment vulnerable, though I don't suppose that three or four yearly thousands seem, to those high-priced glamourites to amount to appreciably more than a single plunk apiece at the end of every twelvemonth. They sound bigger, though, to us ordinary income taxpayers and are a good talking point to us, from congressmen who want to take a jab at the OCD outfit.

Incidentally, it was unfortunate that Mrs. Roosevelt was associated with the OCD's management just when she was. She's a woman of great driving power and undoubtedly was very helpful in organizing the agency's service, but her connection with it, at the especial juncture when the outcry was raised over the glamourites' stipends, can't but have been very embarrassing, not only to the OCD, but to the White House.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's retirement from the OCD directorship, precisely when it was announced, was unlucky likewise. He had already arranged to quit, for being mayor of New York and OCD director simultaneously was too much of a chore for anybody

It isn't very pleasant, though I try to keep my grin,
To be told at every gateway by some guard: "You can't get in!"
To think and feel as thirty, but to have them say: "Begone!"
The minute that you tell them you were born in 'eighty-one.

It isn't very pleasant by some youngster to be told,
When you're burning with ambition: "Sir, you're very much too old!
It's against the regulations. Stay at home and carry on!
We have no need of fellows who were born in 'eighty-one."

It isn't very pleasant when you're feeling fit and spry,
To have some desk-room major on your papers cast an eye;
And look above his glasses when the date he's come upon.
Saying: "Very sorry, grandpa, you
were born in 'eighty-one."

In 'ninety-seven they said it, with a "Hot Time" being sung;
They looked above their glasses and they murmured: "Much too

When the World War came I heard
it, so of service I've had none,
Since I've always had to tell them
I was born in 'eighty-one.

Don't get worried, men, about those vestless suits, cuffless trousers and buttonless sleeves that you may have to wear during the war.

The men's fashion designers will give you plenty of things to attract the girls.

For instance, there is a Victory Suit. It has a red vest with V-pleated back, white coat and blue trousers, and was shown at the Nation Men's Styles Show recently.

With it goes the Pearl Harbor hat—"a loosely woven creation with a wide, curved brim"—and the blackout coat, made of pure white material, and guaranteed to make the wearer visible in the dark.

Patches on trouser-seats and half-soles will continue to be worn.

The Great Game Of Politics

The Battle Of Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17. THINGS are not going so well in Washington and there is no use pretending they are. Silence about the situation is not in the national interest; it is against the national interest. Complacency about the operations of the war organization is sheer stupidity. No informed man is complacent; every posted person is deeply concerned.

THAT is an opinion widely held not only outside the Administration but inside, where, however, it has to be voiced privately. When, after twenty-two months Mr. Roosevelt finally yielded to pressure and, delegating authority to Mr. Nelson, established the single-headed production board which should have been named in the first place, there was a wave of optimism in the country. A feeling arose that at last confusion was to be ended and competency installed. That feeling has been only slightly justified.

IT is true the single-headed board functions better than those where authority was divided. It is true, too, that planes, tanks, etc., are being turned out in ever-increasing quantities. But that is because to a great extent contracts have been awarded and production is in the hands of the factories. Industry, so far as it is not restricted by shortages of raw materials and labor troubles, is concededly doing a good job. In the matter of supplying, through priorities and development, the raw materials, which is Mr. Nelson's real job, he has performed no miracles—and will perform none.

THE best judgment about Mr. Nelson is that he is "pretty good". He isn't another Baruch. And he isn's a human dynamo, except in the

She sang two numbers in a most pleasing manner, with Miss Olive Webb, as accompanist. Her selections were entitled "Morning" and "Old Refrain."

What's What At A Glance

even with his tremendous energy, quite a while before the glamour uproar broke out. Nevertheless, his departure with the glamour howl exactly at its height did tend to give the impression that he was taking it on account of disapproval of the glamourites.

Congressmen who don't overly like the idministration have made the most of it.

Douglas Hits Back

Lawmakers who have done so haven't altogether escaped some return cracks by the glamourites, however. One of 'em is Melvyn Douglas, the screen star. I heard him make a speech the other day, in the course of which he more than hinted that the complaining legislators were bawling out glamourites mainly with a view to diverting attention from congressional pensions and "bundles for congressmen".

Oh, spies and lagging wartime hardships aren't the only subjects that Washington's discussing. The caiptal's in quite a general ferment.

I've had occasion to mention the OCD—initialized.

And I've had previous occasion to speak of the popular initialization of these emergency agencies' name until you've no notion what anybody's talking about.

Well, the other day I ran across this new sample:

Mrs. Clara Genhard Snyder chairman of the HEWBD of the AHEA, said something or other.

How'd anybody know that that means the Home Economics Women in Business Division of the American Home Economics Association? I had to start a regular investigation to get the dope on it.

press releases and his publicity-department written speeches. "Pretty good" just about describes him. Nevertheless, "pretty good" is above average here for key men and it isn't the fact that Mr. Nelson is no superman upon which worry is based. Nor is it altogether the unsavory mess of the OCD. Perhaps, if Mrs. Roosevelt does not linger too long, this organization can be cleaned up, and the boondoggling, uplifting absurdities which now characterize it removed. So long as she stays her pretty pets will cluster around her and there is no chance of real reorganization. Even when the departure of the lady relieves Mr. Landis of his chief embarrassment, it is uncertain that he will do the sort of housecleaning called for. His insistence upon the merit of his moving-picture glamour boy is not altogether reassuring.

HOWEVER, while the offensive fooleries of the OCD have created more public irritation than anything else, they by no means constitute all—or even the main—causes for discontent. For example, there is the basic one that the Admiration is still trying to win the war just with the people the White House likes. Great care is taken to bar out of the important posts those who incurred the Presidential hostility by the vigor of their 1940 opposition. The result is that the best brains of the country are still on the outside. There is also the fact that the jealousies, friction and bewilderment engendered by the multiplicity of the information, publicity, propaganda and civilian morale agencies have now reached new heights.

IN addition, there is the deliberate effort to intrude upon the legitimate field of Secretary of State Hull (Mr. Willkie calls it "nibbling at him"), who is the most respected man inside the Administration and the most generally esteemed outside. The degree to which Mr. Hull has been detoured and his importance diminished has aroused a natural resentment among his friends. One example is the setting up of a board, headed by Vice-President Wallace, with other starry-eyed New Dealers as members, to map out economic war policies—a field in which Mr. Hull has specialized since Mr. Wallace was a child.

AND, finally, there is ths action of Congress in voting retirement pensions for its own members and for the Presidents and Vice-Presidents. This measure was again denounced Friday by Senators Byrd of Virginia and Norris of Nebraska, both of whom urged its repeal. Under existing conditions, for Congress to have passed this bill was indefensible. And for the President, who profits by it, to have signed it with apparent approval, with no word to indicate regret was just as bad. He owed it to the country to make it clear that he signed because the pension was included in a general bill which he did not want to veto. He owed it to the country to make it clear that he does not personally want a pension and does not think members of Congress should vote themselves pensions at this time. But not one word of this sort has come from him or from anyone who reflects views.

ADDING all these things up, it is not surprising that there should be throughout the country a lack of confidence in the unselfishness as well as in the competency of the men who are managing our war effort. It is not surprising that the trenchant criticisms of such men as Byrd, Norris, Tydings, Willkie, Taft and others whose patriotism is unquestioned and whose desire to win the was is as great as Mr. Roosevelt's own, should be disturbing.

But, without their kind of criticism, things will get worse, not better. Without their kind of criticism we may lose this war instead of winning it. Because there is nothing else to jar Administration authorities out of their complacency nor to check up upon incompetency. It is absurd to expect the people as a whole to be militant and united while such things go on at the capital. It is absurd to talk about discipline in the country when the Administration's own house is in such wild disorder and waste runs riot. It is impossible ot build civilian morale in the face of such an exhibition. As Senator Byrd says, "The first battle we have to win is the battle of Washington."

children and youth, able to do so, walk to school whenever weather is good and distance is not excessive.

2. That practically all pupils, youths and teachers in our schools and colleges have daily physical training that exercises the larger muscles, including setting up exercises.

3. That practically all our school and college population be required to do some walking, probably running, daily.

4. That only such programs of games and sports as provide participation for all be carried on in schools and colleges, not only for the duration but also thereafter.

Some very promising developments for desirable daily physical exercise, for women as well as men, are being started at several universities in the United States.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My high school boy teases to have the family car to drive to school ten blocks away because many other boys drive to school in cars.

A. Except for an occasional treat, when the weather is very bad, and neither you nor his father will need the car, don't let him have it. Don't let him drive at any time unless he is legally qualified to do so, nor if he has proved himself a careless driver.

Greater Reader Interest At Camp Shelby Library

By JOHN BAIL
(Special News Correspondent)

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Feb. 12.—The non-divisional library of Camp Shelby, serving the 73rd Field Artillery Brigade which includes the two New Castle units, Battery F and the Second Battalion Service, reports a new high in reader interest with the current Book of the Month selections.

"Dragon Seed" by Pearl Buck, a revealing story of the Chinese under the impact of the Japanese invasion, has been acclaimed "greater than 'Good Earth'," in this month's presentation.

The selection for January written by Arthur Meeker, Jr., entitled "Ivory Mischief", is a historical novel laid around the brilliant court of Louis XIV. A clever romantic interest is built around two beautiful ladies-in-waiting, 'one dark and one fair'.

According to Miss Mary Elizabeth Eley, head librarian of the non-divisional library, the current favorites with the soldier-readers in the non-fiction department are John Gunther's "Inside Latin America" and "Young Man of Caracas" by T. R. Ybarra. Both books are Book-of-the-Month releases.

Filmed and recently shown at the camp theatres, the novel "How Green Was My Valley" by Richard Llewellyn has hit a new level for advance reservations.

It was explained by Miss Eley that a greatly aroused interest among her subscribers toward publications of timely and current information resulted from the war department's presentation of orientation courses of international military and political affairs to the armed forces.

Miss Eley, a librarian of note throughout the south, was formerly with the Mississippi State Library System before coming to Shelby.

SETS RECORD

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 17.—The No. 3 Carrie blast furnace of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, a United States Steel subsidiary, has set a new world's record for blast furnace production with a total of 41,782 net tons of pig iron produced during January, it was announced today.

The performance of the furnace which is located at nearby Rankin, Pa., shattered a previous record of 41,701 net tons established by Carnegie-Illinois' No. 10 furnace at Gary, Ind., in July, 1931.

CHURCHILL REFUSES TO APPOINT SEPARATE MINISTER OF DEFENSE

and Gneisenau and the Cruiser Prinz Eugen from Brest. British authorities said 4,000 tons of bombs had been rained on Brest in bombing sorties in which the British lost 43 aircraft and 247 airmen.

An authoritative statement said the Nazi ships undoubtedly had been hit several times in these raids, and that the bombing became so serious the Germans were compelled to move the vessels.

No less than 3,299 bombing sorties were made on Brest, the statement said.

It was argued the British were unable to have British battleships ready to intercept the German warships in the North Sea because "they would have been exposed to the same scale of air attack as the German ships at Brest."

Inquiry Launched

The statement announced formally that an immediate and confidential inquiry has been launched into all circumstances surrounding escape of the German ships. Doubt was expressed, however, that results of this investigation can be published when it is completed.

The British statement claimed abandonment of Brest as a naval base by the Germans is "decidedly beneficial" to Britain.

"A threat to British convoys has been removed and a heavier scale of air attack on Germany is now possible," the statement said.

"Near misses on the (German) ships will now fall on German instead of French people.

"There is no doubt that our naval position in the Atlantic has not become worse, but has improved."

Both the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau received damage in the passage which will keep them out of action for some time to come," the statement continued.

"They will have to be worked up in gunnery and other practices and before they can again play a part in the war the Royal navy will be reinforced by various units of highest quality. A similar strengthening process is going forward in the United States navy.

"The admiralty did not consider that an attempt to run the gauntlet in the channel would be an impossible operation. The only questions open are why the movement was not detected shortly after daylight and secondly was contact and liaison between the Royal navy and the Royal air force as close as it should have been.

"Inquiry will decide these points."

BOOK'S CONDITION IS STILL CRITICAL

It was reported at the Jameson Memorial hospital this afternoon that the condition of William D. Book, Pennsylvania Department of Highways employe who sustained a compound fracture of the leg and other injuries when struck by an automobile while ashing the highways, is still critical.

Book was struck by an auto driven by Paul Petro, just east of the city on Route 422, at midnight Saturday.

REFUGEE VILLAGE IN PHILIPPINES BOMBED BY JAPS

ity is increasing," indicating that the Japanese may have brought up reinforcements no longed needed in Malaya since the fall of Singapore.

In describing the bomber attack on the little Bataan village of Cabcaben, the war department, recalling the pamphlet propaganda campaign which the enemy has waged in recent weeks, remarked sardonically that "yesterday bombs were substituted for pamphlets."

In addition to 23 women and children killed 13 women and nine children were wounded in the bombing of Cabcaben, which is located on the southeastern shore of Bataan Peninsula.

Preceding the bombing of defenseless refugees, the war department said that Japanese planes for days had dropped propaganda leaflets in that area in which they professed friendship for the Filipinos and urged them to cooperate with the invaders.

Text Of Communique

Following is the text of the war department's 110th communique:

"Philippine Theater—Heavy enemy artillery fire from the Cavite shore bombarded our harbor fortifications with increasing intensity during most of the day.

"Damage to our installations and casualties were not great.

"In Bataan the enemy is bringing up artillery reinforcements and there is increased artillery fire all along the front. Enemy air activity in increasing.

"For several days enemy airplanes have been dropping poorly printed leaflets on refugee camps behind our lines.

"These pamphlets, in English, Spanish and Tagalog, professed great friendship for the Filipinos and exhorted them to cooperate with the invaders and join the greater Asia co-prosperity sphere.

"Yesterday bombs were substituted for pamphlets. These potent messages of death fell on the refugee camp at the defenseless village of Cabcaben.

'Eighteen women and five children were killed in this attack and 13 women and 9 children were wounded.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

an icebreaker, battered her way through the ice and shattered the Nazi fortifications.")

To Outflank Smolensk

While the high command mentioned no place names, recovery of another 40 towns on the northwest front indicated a further advance of the Soviet spearhead driven beyond Velikiye Luki to outflank Smolensk on the north.

Eleven German planes and seven Russian aircraft were destroyed Sunday, the communique added.

Other official Russian accounts told of new Soviet advances on the central and southwestern fronts. German forces in one central front sector alone suffered 1,000 casualties.

Savage fighting was reported on the Kerch Peninsula in the Crimea as the Nazis struggled desperately to hold their lines at this strategic gateway to the oil-rich caucasus.

Around Kharkov, manufacturing metropolis of the Donetz basin, the Germans staged a number of counter-attacks with increasing fury, but all were said to have been repulsed. In this area the Russians were declared to have advanced still further, capturing additional villages.

German counter-attacks also were reported from the Leningrad front.

The Moscow radio said that since the beginning of the war the Soviet navy and naval air force have sunk 81 enemy warships, 276 auxiliaries and heavily damaged 25 warships and 24 auxiliaries.

U. S. Bombers Attack U-Boat Along Coast

Commendation Given Crew Of U. S. Bomber By General Drum

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The first attack on a Nazi submarine by an American bomber in Atlantic coastal waters with probable fatal results for the submarine was reported Monday by the Army Air Force at headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drugg, commander of the First Corps area.

The announcement was made as the six members of a B-25A bomber (North-American, two motored, medium bomber) were presented with official letters of commendation by General Hugh A. Drum, in a brief ceremony at Governor's Island.

The six—the oldest of them 26—were:

Second Lieut. Louis M. Abernathy, pilot, of Arkansas City, Kansas.

Second Lieut. Arthur J. Kush, copilot, of Chicago, Ill.

Second Lieut. Thomas C. Day, navigator, of Blúm, Texas.

Sergt. Joseph R. Tokar, radioman, Ellsworth, Pa.

Corp. John J. Duffy, engineer, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Private 1st Class Donald J. Haher, bombardier, of (925 Philadelphia street) Indiana, Pa.

With Abernathy in command, the bomber was on patrol on a recent date when routine was broken first, by sighting a lifeboat, second by sighting a Nazi submarine.

The lifeboat was one from the tanker China Arrow, a Standard Oil ship which had been torpedoed, and the bomber communicated its position with the result that its occupants were rescued.

With good deed No. 1 out of the way, the bomber continued on patrol and was winging along at good speed when the outline of a submarine appeared on the water below.

She was awash, only her conning tower and a bare few inches of her hull above water. It was obvious she also was unsuspecting for until the bomber was almost directly overhead at 1,000 feet, she rolled casually at ease.

Four Bombs Dropped

Her stern was still above the surface when Raher at his bombadier's post, let go with four bombs.

One exploded less than five feet away—it appeared to be right against the hull—and the other three hit close enough to be considered effective.

The submarine disappeared beneath the water and a few seconds later, an oil patch some 50 feet in diameter lay on the surface, then another oil slick appeared about 300 yards ahead of the original patch.

In notifying the six youngsters that they had been officially commended by General Drum and by Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the Third Naval District, for their "prompt action and skill," Brigadier General Arnold A. Krogstad, commanding the Eastern Army Air Force, asserted:

"The destruction of the enemy submarine appears most probable; very serious damage is almost certain."

With the typical reticence of the good soldier, the six Monday tossed the credit for the performance around from one to the other and collectively asserted that they hadn't done any more than could be expected of them in the line of duty.

Kush at 26, is the oldest of the six. He received his commission on August 30, 1940 when Abernathy who is 23, also was commissioned. Both are married.

Day was commissioned in the Army Air Corps on January third this year. He is 24.

The oldest of the three non-commissioned officers is Tokar. He is 24 and enlisted in the air corps on July 11, 1940. Duffy, 21, has been in the air corps since December 6, 1939 and Raher, 21, enlisted on August 16, 1940.

The Navy reports a submarine off-shore—"presumably an enemy". Doesn't the Navy know where our ships are, either?

District Dealers' Auto Inventories Due On Thursday

New Castle district automobile dealers and other having supplies of 1942 automobiles today were reminded by Washington that they must file inventories of their stock with Attorney William J. Caldwell, Lawrence county rationing chairman, on or before Thursday.

Leo H. McCormick, acting regional director of the Office of Price Administration in Philadelphia, said requirements for inventories affect every person or firm who, on February 11, was holding for sale or transfer any 1942 model cars or trucks or cars or trucks of other models which had not been driven more than 1,000 miles.

"Persons engaged in selling, distributing or financing of cars, trucks, trailers and semi-trailers are required to report if they held new passenger automobiles or trucks in these categories on February 11," McCormick said.

No automobile or truck in these groups can be released for sale under the rationing plan when it becomes effective February 26 unless it was included in the dealer's inventory, he said.

Set $3,204,000 Year's Estimate For Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—Thomas J. Evans, vice chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, predicted today the road would earn approximately $3,204,000 in its second year of operation ending next September 30.

This amount, he said, would be about the same as estimated originally by traffic engineers. During its first year the toll road earned $3,000,000.

Evans acknowledged that the switch from peace to war-time industry caused a reduction in truck traffic which supplies a good percentage of the turnpike's revenue. There has been "no alarming change in passenger car travel" so far, he asserted, because the full effect of tire rationing has not been felt.

"We shall have a better conception of this type of travel by July 1," he added.

Mr. Ricker was formerly stationed at the naval dispensary at Savite City, which is now in the hands of the Japs. He had been transferred from the buildings to aboard ship three weeks before the bombings.

He is serving his eighth year as pharmacist mate in the naval service, and his third year in the Philippines.

Speaker Cautions Against Hysteria

Private citizens who repeat unfounded rumors are harming the cause of America just as surely as if they were paid propagandists, warned Richard O'Brien, Monday night when he spoke to the Lawrence county chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association. The meeting was the monthly dinner meeting held in The Castleton.

"These are times when all of us should do more than look a rumor in the face" said Mr. O'Brien. "Before we repeat it we should run it down as far as possible and then not repeat it. Rumors of allied losses, rumors of troop movements, these and many others can harm the Allied cause and it is our job as citizens to see that others are not guilty as well as ourselves."

For the March meeting President Al Bauman, Jr., stated that an effort was being made to get T. E. Transeau, state commodity rationing chairman here.

Latest Census figures indicate that the country has 27,987 hotels with 1,445,415 guest rooms. If these were all devoted to the use of persons on vacation, everyone in the United States could stay one week a year in a hotel.

Vichy Seeking To Be Friendly With Uncle Sam

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Indicating Vichy's desire to maintain friendly relations with the United States, authoritative quarters in Washington disclosed that Marshal Henri Petain has renewed for another six months the commission of Gaston Henry-Haye as French ambassador to this country.

Ambassador Henry-Haye's commission as French envoy to the United States technically expired Jan. 30. As a member of the French senate, his appointment as a diplomatic envoy must be renewed every six months. He has received official word of the renewal.

Coming at a time when relations between the two countries have been strained over the question of French aid to the axis forces in Libya, the renewal of Ambassador Henry-Haye's commission is seen as a definite indication that Vichy, for its part, is not contemplating any break with the United States.

Hope To Avoid Rupture

Similar evidence that the American government is hopeful of avoiding a rupture in diplomatic relations with Vichy was seen in the state department's announcement that G. Wallace Le Rue, American vice-consul at Bombay, India, has been ordered to proceed to Algiers in the same capacity. Algiers is under control of the Vichy government, and it is not thought likely that La Rue would be transferred from Bombay to that post if the state department considered a termination of relations with Vichy imminent.

There are, in fact, strong indications in official quarters that the American government hopes it will be possible to avoid a break with Vichy.

As long as diplomatic relations exist between this country and Vichy, France, American officials feel there is a chance of persuading Marshal Petain to refrain from turning over the French fleet or French North African bases to the Axis.

Kept Word 20 Monthss

The Marshal has kept his work in this respect for twenty months, and the state department feels that the fact he has resisted German pressure for complete collaboration is due in no small part to the influence in Vichy of American Ambassador Admiral William D. Leahy.

However, the continuance of friendly relations between this country and Vichy is now dependent on whether Marshal Petain is able to put a stop to the aid which has been reaching the Axis forces in Libya from France. This aid has included motor trucks and food supplies, shipped from the French mainland aboard both French and Italian ships.

The state department is now awaiting a reply from Vichy to its stern note of warning concerning this aid. The note implied that this government will have to reconsider its entire policy toward France unless there is an end to the aid to German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces, which the United States regards as beyond France's obligation under the terms of the armistice with Germany and Italy.

Anzacs Drink Beer In Desert

Philadelphia Brewery Ships Big Consignment To Aussies In Africa

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—Australia's fierce-fighting Anzacs are also good at drinking beer.

That became quite evident when it was disclosed that a Philadelphia brewery recently shipped 120,000 cans of beer to quench the thirst of the Australians in Africa. It was explained that the American beer was being sent because the Anzacs prefer it, because British brewers are unable to meet the demand and because each Anzac soldier is supposed to receive a bottle of beer a day as part of his pay.

The beer is packed in pasteboard cases, it was explained, so that they could be used to fill crannies on freighters which otherwise wouldn't be used.

CAMBRIA COUNTY TURNS TO FARMING

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 17.—As in the days of '17, Cambria county residents are preparing to go back to the farm as their contribution to the national defense program.

According to the Cambria county council of defense, every man and woman will be asked to be his own farmer under the "victory garden" program to be inaugurated next spring.

"We will follow out much the same plan as in World War 1," Walter J. Stinson, chairman of the council, said, "in asking industries to allot available ground to employes for private gardening purposes."

Ban Extension Of Gas Heating At End Of Month

Seventeen States And District Of Columbia Are Affected By Coming Ban

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—On orders from the war production board the installation of gas heating systems in homes stores or factories was under ban today in 17 states and the District of Columbia.

Curtailment in the use of natural gas and mixed natural and manufactured gas was ordered by the W.P.B. to insure adequate supplies of gas for the production of arms and munitions. The W.P.B. indicates that the curtailment program will be extended to other areas in the future.

States affected are: Alabama (except the area served by the United Gas Pipe Line Co.); Arkansas (with respect to the area served by the Mississippi River Fuel Co.); California, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi (except the area served by the United Gas Pipe Line Co.); Missouri, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Restrictions in other parts of the nation will not be applied until a gas shortage occurs or becomes imminent in the region concerned. The order also states that heating equipment now using other fuels may not be converted to gas.

In the states named in the order, gas companies are prohibited from deliveries of gas for heating new homes, stores, factories or other buildings unless the heating equipment is installed before March 1, or the equipment was specified in the construction contract, and the main part of the construction was completed before that date.

Civilian Pilot Training Program Is Increased

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Warned by Secretary of State Hull that war problems "are going to become more and more difficult as time goes on," the House appropriations committee on Monday voted to increase the civilian pilot training program to develop a reservoir of 49,500 new citizen-flyers a year.

At the same time the committee, warmly praising the patriotism of penitentiary inmates for greatly increasing their industrial output since the war, made public testimony that prison and military officials are working out a program under which many prisoners will be paroled for service in the armed forces.

Increase Anti-Sabotage Work

Granting the federal bureau of investigation $21,000,000 for anti-espionage and sabotage work, the committee formally exonerated the F. B. I. for the Pearl Harbor tragedy, asserting that its agents "deligently obtained vital information which was placed in the hands of responsible military and naval authorities in ample time to have been of valuable assistance had it been heeded."

The developments came as the group reported out a $221,069,700 supply bill for the departments of state, justice and commerce and the federal judiciary. The measure was increased $13,000,000 above budget estimates to step up civilian pilot training, but was $150,000,000 below last year's spending because nothing has been asked yet this year for development of air fields by the civil aeronautics authority.

In speeding the measure to the floor, the committee made public testimony of officials of the departments concerned which disclosed:

1. A statement by Attorney General Biddle—who testified on January 13, before the fire in New York aboard the S. S. Normandie—that "we have to have a better system of guarding docks against possible sabotage of vessels and we need closer cooperation and organization work from the army, navy and civil authorities."

Getting Rubber Stocks Out

2. Testimony of state department officials that the United States, Great Britain and the Dutch "have abandoned all formalities concerning ownership" and are now cooperating in getting vital rubber stocks out of dangerous zones in the Far East.

3. A declaration by Hull that "western hemisphere solidarity is not a meaningless phrase, but a vital reality." After hearing coordinator of inter-American affairs Nelson A. Rockefeller complain that to date special interest groups in the new work have been dealing solely with each other without any broad coordination, the committee granted him $1,700,000 and urged that Spanish and Portuguese be taught in American schools and English in Latin America.

4. An assurance from Hull that the state department is "a militant part of our fighting forces, combatting vigorously the efforts of the Axis powers to gain support for their cause." Hull also said that post war planning already is going on full speed, and other officials said that "in time of war we must prepare for peace."

5. Testimony that the state department now has 258 posts throughout the world gathering vital political and military information, and plans quickly to establish nine more—at Tabriz, Iran; Accra, British West Africa; St. Lucia, British West Indies; Salina Cruz, Mexico; Asmara, Eritrea; Loanda, Africa; Kabul, Afghanistan; Arequipa, Peru; and Caripita, Venzuela.

Song Sparrows Coming Back

As February lengthens day by day, and draws to a close, harborings of spring can be noticed in the outdoors. Although the weather may be rough, the bold voyagers from the south have started to wing our way.

Recently Owen Fox, city forester, noticed on the topmost branch of one of the oak trees at Gaston Park, the first of the song sparrows could be heard singing. The song of these birds in the inclement weather informs a person that a new season is in the offing.

These birds that stay with us all summer, are truly insect destroyers, and the first to attack the tent caterpillers as they come out in the warm sun of spring. Owen Fox has noticed that the newly arrived song sparrows start their work right away hunting the destroying insects and grubs, thus making a valuable bird to have with us. They are not only faithful workers, but its song is a cheer in the gloomy days.

Victory Book Drive Over Top

Quota Is Bettered By 400, With Total Of 5,704 Books Collected Here

Lawrence county has done its share—and more—in the current Victory Book Campaign that is being carried on in the counties, cities and states throughout the nation for 10,000,000 books to fill library shelves for the men in the armed forces and merchant marine of our country by a good margin.

For with 5300 books set as the quota for Lawrence county, our local drive is over the top wtih 5704 books already received at the main collection point, the New Castle Free Public Library, and more are still coming in.

"As the need for books will continue in the camps," said Miss Alice Sterling, local director of the VBC, today, "the public library will continue to receive the contributions of those who wish to give books for the service men until we receive word from Pennsylvania's state director, Horace M. Byrnes, state librarian, that enough books for present needs have been donated."

First contributor to the VBC in New Castle was Miss Nannie Mitcheltree, principal of Mahoning school, who brought in the first books as a representative of the P. E. O. Sisterhood.

And it was Miss Mitcheltree who brought in another P. E. O. donation of nearly 100 books that gave the final push needed to jump the VBC total over its goal.

BAD DEBTS—METHOD OF DEDUCTION

Bad debts constitute a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one of two ways—either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless either in whole or in part and charged off, or by a deduction of a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. Taxpayers were given an option for 1921 to select either of the two methods. The method used in the return for 1921 must be used in returns for subsequent years unless permission is granted by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to change to the other method. Application to change must be made at least 30 days prior to the close of the taxable year for which the change is to be effective. However, a taxpayer filing a first return for 1941 may select either of the two methods, subject to the approval of the commissioner upon examination of the return. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit is extended over a considerable period of time. It is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific debt.

What constitutes a "reasonable addition" to a reserve for bad debts must be determined in the light of the facts, and will vary as between classes of business and with conditions of business prosperity. It will depend primarily upon the total amount of debts outstanding as of the close of the taxable year, those arising currently as well as those arising in prior taxable years, and the total amount of the existing reserve. In case subsequent realizations upon outstanding debts prove to be more or less than estimated at the time of the creation of the existing reserve, the amount of the excess or inadequacy in the existing reserve should be reflected in the determination of the reasonable addition necessary in the taxable year. A taxpayer using the reserve method should show in his return the volume of charge sales (or other business transactions) for the year, and the percentage of the reserve to such amount, the total amount of notes and accounts receivable at the beginning and end of the taxable year, and the total amount of the debts ascertained to be worthless and charged against the reserve during the taxable year.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17—The special session of the legislature will not be as harmonious as Governor James might have wished, if only because the governor included in his call a subject which has turned out to be controversial. The governor's request for postponement of the effective date of the new parole act beyond June 1 1942, is being opposed by Rep. Samuel M. Rosenfeld, Philadelphia Democrat, who sponsored the measure in the 1941 session. Rosenfeld's opposition, if backed by house majority leaders, will block postponement of the act as the lower chamber is Democratic-controlled.

Democrats are also incensed over the governor's refusal to name not only the members of the new parole commission but also members of the Civil Service Commission. The acts which created the two commissions set forth that the civil service commissioners were to be named within a month after the governor approved the enabling act and the parole commissioners by October 1, 1941. The deadline for appointing the civil service commissioners was Sept. 5, 1941. Governor James held, however, that the time limits were not compulsory. Recently he stated he would name the members of the Civil Service Commission although, he added, "there has really been no call for the commission to do anything."

A three-cornered fight for the Republican nomination for governor appears to be shaping up. One major candidate, William H. Harman of Philadelphia, is already in the field as the nominee of the new guard Republicans. Harman, a Baldwin Locomotive Works vice-president and chairman of the Associated Willkie clubs of Pennsylvania in 1940, was placed in the running by P. Stephen Stahlnecker, campaign manager for the insurgent group. The regular organization expects to announce its candidate, or leastways make clear the man it will back for governor, this month. Reports are that he will be Ma. Gen. Edward Martin, if a way can be found to release him from his present duties as coordinator of civilian defense in the fifth army corps area, with headquarters at Columbus, O.

The third major candidate is U. S. Sen. James J. Davis. The former cabinet officer appears to be waiting until he can see what opposition he will have. If the opposition is more than he thinks he can surmount, he may not announce at all. As February 28 is the first day on which nomination petitions can be circulated it is expected that when and if he announces it will be around that date.

Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth Gene Smith has gone to new lengths to satisfy a request. He was asked by David M. Gregg of Reading to locate an oil portrait of Andrew Gregg, U. S. senator from 1807 to 1813 and commonwealth secretary from 1819 to 1823. Smith looked in every nook and cranny where dingy oil portraits still hang, but was unable to locate it. Finally, after two weeks, he found it, about 10 feet from his office door.

Scrap Collection Here Wednesday

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 17.—Any old iron or steel—some pipe, grates, worn-out tools, machinery, auto parts in your basement, attic, barn or garage?

Well, why not use it to take a crack at Hitler—Hirohito or Mussolini, instead of having it lie around in your yard or home continually being an eyesore.

The steel mills need it to make steel to keep the essential war materials, such as tanks, guns, ships, airplanes and bombs moving up to the soldiers and sailors who do the fighting. Local plants are facing a shortage of steel and Ellwood City along with other industrial cities throughout the country that are all out on defense orders should heed the call of the War Production Board and help to scrap the Jap by gathering up all the scraps that they have laying around and place it out in front of their home tomorrow so that Boy Scouts and members of the Lions Club can collect it and dump it in cars so that it can be shipped to the steel mills to be made into steel.

Remember tomorrow is the day for the big scrap collection and if everybody cooperates the community will have had a direct slap at the three culprits, Hitler, Hirohito or Mussolini.

More Raids Are Made On Japs On West Coast

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation's campaign against Japanese espionage and sabotage continued in full sweep up and down the Pacific coast today, with three unloaded aerial bombs being the most important haul in a succession of spectacular raids which uncovered large quantities of other contraband.

The San Francisco Bureau of the F.B.I. indicated that the series of arrests was one of the most important so far staged.

This time, according to Nat Pieper, agent in charge, the raiders, 25 G-Men and 50 police officers, moved inland to Sacramento, in the vicinity of Mather field, air training center, and picked up 13 "potentially dangerous aliens," including former Japanese army and navy officers and a university graduate who "owes certain duties to Japan."

At the same time, other F.B.I. agents "mopped up" in the Monterey area following last week's extensive raids, arresting four more Japanese, two of them members of an organization whose members expected to serve with the Japanese army.

Other developments in the alien situation along the coast saw thousands of aliens moving away from restricted zones and more getting ready to move by the final deadline of February 24.

This is Store A —it sells tires

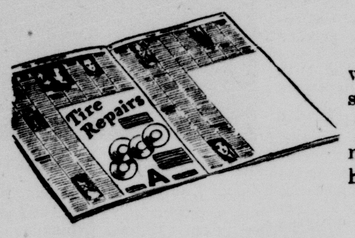

This is Store B —it sells tires

This is newspaper advertising

Here Store A and Store B tell the public that they have tires for sale and where their stores are located.

But now there is a shortage of rubber, due to the war. Store A and Store B haven't enough tires to sell. Store B stops advertising.

Store A keeps right on advertising—keeps its name before the public—and tells its customers how to get the most wear out of their tires.

What happens?

The public forgets about Store B. The public remembers about Store A, appreciates that Store A is interested in their getting the most out of their tires, not in just selling tires.

When the rubber shortage is over, people are in the habit of thinking about getting tires from Store A . . . and they are out of the habit of thinking about Store B.

This isn't just theory. During World War I some Store B's stopped advertising. By the time they started advertising again, the Store A's, which had kept on advertising, were 'way ahead of them with customers that were friendly and grateful. The Store B's kept on dropping behind.

It's the same today. There is a shortage of some goods. But you'll notice that the wise owners of the Store A's still advertise their services to you, still keep their names where you can see them, in the newspaper ads.

AND THAT'S ONE VERY GOOD REASON WHY YOU WON'T FIND THEIR STORES ADVERTISING THEIR PLACES FOR RENT WHEN THE WAR IS OVER!

Australia To To Halt Nipponese Advance, Dr. Bennett Thinks

Native Of 'Down Under,' Pastor Tells Rotary Jap Tide Will Be Stemmed

Australia's government long ago foresaw the day when that "down under" country—where it's summer now—would be forced to defend herself against Asiatic aggression, and has well prepared for Japanese military assault if it comes, Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of First Christian church, yesterday told the Rotary club at The Castleton.

Back 40 years ago Australia enacted a law which prohibited the entrance of Asiatics as laborers, and thus the nation early eliminated what might today have reared its ugly form in the form of "fifth column" activities, Dr. Bennett said.

Himself a native of the South Pacific land of which the kangaroo is symbol Dr. Bennett came to America in 1906.

Describing much of the continent as "unexplored," the minister pointed out that Australia holds abundant riches for those who develop it.

He told the luncheon audience that he believes the country will become the base for vital United Nations operations, as well it already has become. However, he thinks its role in turning the Japanese tide will be far greater than most Americans realize.

Dr. Bennett was introduced by Rotarian Fred L. Rentz.

Frances Perkins May Resign Post In U. S. Cabinet

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Reports that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will soon resign were current in high administrtion circles today.

While rumors of her retirement have periodically spread through the capitol, the fresh reports come from more responsible sources.

With the increasing importance of Sidney Hillman in the war-labor set-up and the action of President Roosevelt in naming an unofficial "labor cabinet," Miss Perkins' influence is said to be steadily declining in administration circles.

Catholic Churches Will Observe Lent

Lent, the most important season of the liturgical year, begins in the Roman Catholic churches of the city, on Ash Wednesday, February 18, and will be observed by all Catholics.

With the four Sundays of Lent and Passion and Palm Sunday deducted, there are only 36 penitential days in the six complete weeks of Lent, so that in order to obtain the full number of 40 days, the four days preceding the first Sunday of Lent are added, thereby making the Lenten season begin on a Wednesday.

Lent divided itself into two parts. The first commences on Ash Wednesday and ends on Passion Sunday. The second and more solemn part extends from Passion Sunday until noon of Holy Saturday, the end of Lent. These two weeks, termed "the great fortnight," are called Passion time. The many changes in the liturgy in Lent serve to show the mind of the church that the spirit of penance has become more intense in this season. The solemnization of marriage is forbidden. The liturgical color is purple, the sign of penitence. Altars remain bare of flowers and decorations. Except for the fourth Sunday in Lent and before the Gloria of the mass on Holy Thursday and after the Gloria on Holy Saturday, the organ is silent, nor is any musical accompaniment allowed, unless necessary to support the singing. Most pronounced, however, are the changes in the celebration of the Lenten mass. Purple vestments are used. The Gloria and Alleluia are suppressed. Special prefaces are said, one for the first part of Lent, another for Passion time. A prayer is added after the post-communion oration, called the "Prayer Over the People," beginning with this call to humility: "Bow down your heads before God."

That Lent should be a 40-day fast seems to have been influenced by the Biblical examples of Moses, Elias and most particularly, Our Lord. Moses fasted for 40 days on Mt. Sinai in the desert; Elias, on Mt. Horeb, and Our Lord, prepared for His public ministry by fasting 40 days in the desert.

The English word, Lent, coming from the Teutonic word for spring, actually carries no indication in itself of a season of 40 days, as do the Latin term and its derivatives in other languages. Though the spirit of Lent has remained always one of penance through prayer and fasting, the severity of the observance of the Lenten fast has suffered its changes. Of old, some Christians passed the entire day without food; some went even farther and lived on only one or two meals a week. But the ordinary fast was to take only one meal a day, with meat and wine forbidden in the early centuries. Gradually, however, customs introduced them selves into the observance of the Lenten fast and as time went on, these practices joined with the successive indults of the Holy See, lessened the severity of Lenten penance, such as eating meat once a day throughout the year, except on Fridays, Christmas Eve, Ash Wednesday and before noon on Holy Saturday.

Regardless of how well one is capable to observe the externals of the Lenten penance, the spirit of Lent stills persists to remind one of the necessity of penance for sin to make effective in the sinner the work of the redemption.

The Catholic churches of this city start the observance of the Lenten season on Wednesday and throughout the season, special services and speakers are being arranged for the entire Lenten season.

Must Keep Watch For Insect Foes

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Feb. 17.—while human enemies may threaten the shores of our country, formidable insect foes which can make serious inroads into our food supply, must not be ignored.

This warning was issued today by H. N. Worthley, entomologist at the Pennsylvania State college, who pointed out that war effort in the United States is demanding many materials used in the preparation of insecticides.

College agriculturists, who have noted marked concern on the part of Pennsylvania fruit and vegetable growers, recommend that farmers should immediately lay in their supply of insecticides for the 1942 season.

Dr. Worthley points out that insecticides are far from luxuries, but are absolute necessities if widespread crop losses are to be avoided.

Research entomologists at Penn State recommend, in the present emergency, the development of multiple means for the control of important fruit pests. It is important to have more than one insecticide on hand.

Bootleggers Are Still In Business

Ten Per Cent Of Liquor Sold In Pennsylvania Said To Be Illegal Stuff

HIGH PRICES AND TAXES TO BLAME

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—Despite the efforts of the State Liquor Control Board's understaffed force of enforcement agents, bootleggers still make 10 per cent. of the liquor sold in Pennsylvania, according to the Pennsylvania Alcoholic Study, Inc.

Randolph W. Childs, executive director, said that the $90,000,000 liquor monopoly operated by the Liquor Control Board should reduce annual operating profits to approximately $16,000,000 through decreased prices as one method of combatting bootlegging. In 1934, net profits were $2,228,757 while last year profits skyrocketed to $19,504,393.

"There are two factors which stimulate bootlegging," Childs stated, "There are excessive federal liquor taxes and excessive state store prices."

He pointed out that federal taxes had been progressively increased from $2 a gallon to $4 while state store prices reflected the boost.

As a policy of fixing liquor prices, Childs said, the board should ascertain if the prices were fair to both the consumer and the state, and remember that prices should not be based on the principle of revenue only. In addition, "prices should be lower than in surrounding license states as the state stores are relieved from many expenses which are borne by private business.

"It is axiomatic," Childs declared, "that excessive liquor prices tend to revive large scale bootlegging. Too great stress has been laid on reaping increased profits from alcoholic beverages and too little attention has been paid to the right of the liquor consuming public to purchase alcoholic beverages at a fair price."

Childs declared that while the illicit manufacture and sale of liquor drastically dropped with the repeal of the 18th Amendment, there is still a certain volume of illegal liquor—estimated between five and 10 per cent. of all liquor sold in Pennsylvania.

Big Demand For Birth Records

State Furnishing Thousand Certificates Per Day For Workers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—More than a thousand birth certificates a day are flowing from the offices of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Vital Statistics in Harrisburg.

Within the past year birth certificates have become necessary credentials for any one of a dozen vital transactions. Foremost of these is the necessity for proving United States citizenship as a qualification for employment in civil service defense industries. This requirement is mandatory under federal law. The business firm which neglects to enforce it strictly may be penalized by having its contract for war materials summarily cancelled.

When there is no record of an applicant's birth in the files of the vital statistics bureau documentary evidence such as a baptismal certificate must be produced to prove his claim. Baptismal certificates issued by the Russian or Greek Orthodox churches are dated according to the Julian calendar and have to be brought into line with the Gregorian calendar by which time is reckoned in this country. Roman Catholics baptismal certificates are written in Latin and must also be translated to determine the all important facts—date and place of birth and names of the parents.

Keystone Auto Club Will Act As Collection Agency In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—The Keystone Automobile Club announces it will act as a reclamation agency to convert to war needs all 1941 license tags discarded by the 3,000,000 motorists in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the District of Columbia.

"Need for scrap metals is strongly emphasized said Keystone President J. Maxwell Smith. "Under ordinary conditions discarded tags probably would find their way into junkyards only after a period of months."

Smith explained that club officials will receive tags as they are replaced by 1942 plates and turn them over to Uncle Sam. He asked motorists in the tri-state area to cooperate in the patriotic salvage movement.

FATHER JOINS TWO SONS IN SERVICE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—Max Silverman, 48, has two sons serving with Uncle Sam's armed forces, but that wasn't enough. Now he, too, is serving.

"My sons are helping their country and I don't see why their father should not do likewise," said Silverman as he was sworn in as a marine in the limited reserve class.

He explained that his wife and daughter can run his downtown fur business for the duration.

Your Electric Refrigerator

Defend Health

You Need Controlled Cold to Protect Perishable Vitamins

Nature is a generous bestower of vitamins and minerals in all manner of fresh foods. But in her proverbial fashion, she seems to say—"I've done my part. If you want these strength-building qualities, you must care for them." This means that your first responsibility is to protect them from the minute you get them. It means that you must keep your foods so that all their natural, healthful elements are imprisoned until used.

Electric refrigeration gives you this safe protection because it provides controlled "cold"—so right that rich though perishable vitamins and minerals are fully retained. Reasons why we say—Electric refrigeration definitely helps defend health. Indeed, we cannot urge you too strongly to get maximum use out of your own electric refrigerator.

Council Plans To Purchase Sweeper

When council met in the city building Monday favorable action was taken on a recommendation of Streets Director James Gibson which authorized the city clerk to ask bids for a new streets sweeper.

The present sweeper is so old it costs approximately $1,500 a year to keep it operating, Gibson asserted recently.

New Castle Plays Ambridge Tonight In Crucial Battle

New Castle Can Be Assured Of Tie At Least Through Win Over Visitors

Expect Large Crowd At Washington Gym For Game, Reserves In Preliminary

New Castle high school basketball team is going to try like everything for a victory tonight over Ambridge high at the Washington high gym.

With six wins and only one defeat, the New Castle team can be assured of at least a tie for the Section 3 title, providing they lose all of their remaining games.

The reserve teams of the two game at 7 o'clock. Indications point schools will play the preliminary to a sell-out crowd again this evening. The Aliquippa game on February 6 was a complete sell-out.

New Castle Is Ready

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh gave his charges a final tough workout on Monday afternoon in preparation for the Ambridge battle, and announced himself as satisfied that New Castle would be in the thick of the fight tonight. No lineup changes were announced.

New Castle licked Ambridge at the valley town in the first half 31 to 26 and hopes to turn the trick again this evening. Ambridge will come here with every intention of atoning for the setback, and more so to try and keep New Castle from the section championship.

Other section three games tonight will send Beaver Falls to Aliquippa, and New Brighton to Ellwood City.

Following are the probable lineups for the game tonight:

New Castle		Ambrdge
Lee	F	Osso
Ciazza	F	Fijewski
Melichar	C	Ulinski
Zubkowsky	G	Shemelys
Burris	G	Lanieswki

Jenkins-Servo Fight Tonight

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—Lew Jenkins, the hollow-cheeked Texan who bought a round-trip ticket to major fame and return with his fists, tonight makes another bid for the higher brackets in a 10-rounder with Marty Servo at the Philadelphia arena.

The recently dethroned lightweight champ hopes to knock over the coast guardsman tonight, take on Bob Montgomery in March and then re-tackle Sammy Angott for the title.

Servo, however, is a 2 to 1 choice and probably will have a five pound pull on the bony Texan.

ENGINEERING WINS GAME

The Pennsylvania Engineering Works basketball team won a House League game last night at the "Y" from the Globetrotters 31 to 27. Starring in the game were: Davey Greer, Covelli, J. Ross and I. Solomon. On Wednesday night the Celtics will play the Jewels.

"BUILDING X"

The large field house now open at the Great Lakes Training Station is known as "Building X." The Great Lakes basketball team is so good that "X" really marks the spot for visitors.

N. Y. A. Notches 11th Win, 43-42

In the most thrilling game of the season played on The Arena floor, the powerful N. Y. A. cage five won an overtime 43-42 triumph over a crack Geneva college all-star aggregation last night.

Trailing 40-38, J. Antonio sent the game into an extra session with a pretty overhead flip. R. Rubeis' side heave gave the locals their eleventh victory. Antonio starred for the winners again, this time popping in 16 points.

Cubs Will Start West Wednesday

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—There was an abundance of hustle and bustle around headquarters of the Chicago Cubs in the Wrighley Building today when General Manager Jim Gallagher started coralling his playing and non-playing tourists for the take-off tomorrow night at Catalina Island, off the California coast.

Denying all rumors that the war of the Pacific would change the training ground for the Cub ball team, Gallagher said:

"I've never said anything other than that we'd train on the island. We'll make it, and we'll make it by Saturday, you can bet on that."

Gallagher plans to take 32 players and club attaches on the west coast journey.

Three Fast Games In Church Loop

Second Defeats Greek Team, Epworth And St. Vitus Also Win Games

Three fast games were played in the New Castle church league at the "Y" last night, the first game finding the Epworth team paced by Eddie Nahas, Zeke Wainio and Reed defeating the Central Presbyterians 39 to 17.

In the second game on the card the league-leading Second U. P. ran rampant over the hard fighting St. George Greeks to take it 46 to 20, with Bob Pitzer, McGary and Jamison starring for the winners, and the veteran "Cogey" Othites the high-scorer for the "Fighting Spartans".

The third game saw the runner-up St. Vitus team with a 51 to 33 win the Croton Methodist team. The Saints were paced by the aging Petey Zingaro who had 16 of the points. G. Adams was best in the Croton lineup.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Perhaps you recall that a few days ago I reported with customary modesty that I was presenting a scoop, as it is called, when I said Les MacMitchell, the New York University miler, was about to assault all the records at that distance. I don't know whether I wrote a scoop or not. You never can tell about those things. Some weasel is always likely to crowd in there and get the news out ahead of you.

Anyhow, MacMitchell is going to try to win the National A. A. U. mile title at the Garden on Feb. 28 and if he is successful he will hold every mile title extant. After that he is going to the Dartmouth track to try to break Glenn Cunningham's record of 4:04.4, fastest mile ever run by man.

MacMitchell has never tried for the A. A. U. title before, and probably will cop that one all right to keep intact his victory string. So far he has won 18 in a row. After that will come the Dartmouth attempt and possibly the first four minute flat mile ever clocked.

What About Alsab?

If Alsab could talk and could make Johnny Ray shut up he could sympathize with Billy Conn. Unfortunately, Alsab can't do either, inasmuch as he is just a race horse.

Just a race horse? All he is the most sensational two-year-old champion of recent years who has flopped out twice in a row as a three-year-old and thus has caused everybody to wonder how he ever became ranked as the shortest-priced favortie in Kentucky Derby history.

But if Alsab could go Billy Conn and talk it over with him he could explain the vagaries of fortune and what it means.

Conn was the toast of the pugilistic world for a couple of years, especially after he had won and taken a strangle hold on the light heavy title and then had boxed Joe Louis' ears off for 13 rounds, only to get knocked out. He was booed last week when he failed to knock out middleweight champion Tony Zale, and he later expressed to the press his deep hurt over this callous attitude to his efforts.

We won't go into that beyond saying that it was a pretty good fight and ended about as expected.

Conn Was Booed

Yet Conn was booed and Alsab would like to walk in and console him. Alsab has been booed twice and he didn't even win Conn at least had the satisfaction of having his hand lifted. All four of Alsab's hooves have been mired in defeat as a three-year-old.

He made his debut Saturday a week ago at Hailean and finished sixth, wasn't it? Last Saturday he tried a comeback and finished fourth in a six horse field.

Besides being the shortest-priced winter book favorite he also is the most booed winter book favorite.

But he won't be able to sympathize with Conn even if he can talk ordinary pugilistic English. He won't be able to break in on Johnny Ray, who is Conn's manager and mouthpiece and perhaps the most loquacious man in boxing today.

Vault Mark

One more thing: Just last Friday night I was sitting at a table with three track and field experts who persisted in the notion that no one ever will pole vault 20 feet. I'm not an expert of any kind. I gave up that silly delusion a long time ago.

But I said I thought somebody would vault that distance eventually—some fellow who was exceptionally fast down the runway, very strong in his arms. Agile and with the height necessary to get a far up grip on the bar.

I also said that Cornelius Warmerdam might add several more inches to the records he already has set. Nobody thought this was important and probably it isn't yet Warmerdam vaulted 15 feet 7 1-4 inches at Boston Saturday night and that is the highest any man has soared off the ground without wings.

War profits will at least prevent a sugar-daddy shortage.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

What's new in sports today?

Recent performances indicate that Mrs. Thomas E. Nolan, the nationally known golf star, is back in her championship stride. Her athletic career temporarily halted by an appendicitis operation and later by a serious back injury sustained in a fall at Asheville, N. C., the popular local star is competing in the various winter tourneys.

Last week, the east sider flashed an 82 to finish third in the tough Miami Women's Invitation event. After touring the various tourneys in Florida, Mrs. Nolan will invade several other states for similar affairs before heading back home. In 1939 and 1940, Mrs. Nolan copped the Western Pennsylvania championship.

Craig Wood is the National Open champion for the duration of the war, now that the perennial classic has been scratched. This reminds us that Frank C. Summers, whose No. 1 sport is golf, was paired with the famous Wood guy on the Normandy Isle course in Miami Beach, Florida. Wood and the New Castle sportsman easily defeated a pair of Youngstowners, a few days back.

Fred Shaffer's 1942 contract to hurl for the Louisville Colonels of the American Association league has been signed, sealed and delivered to the Kentucky moguls. The document includes the new "war clause" injected in practically all baseball contracts. If Fred receives Uncle Sam's nod, the salary, etc., automatically halt.

Ernie Lombardi's slowness afoot may have caused the Cincy Reds to dispose of him before the start of the 1942 season to the Boston Braves. In 10 seasons as a Cincy performer, the big catcher stole only five bases. . . . American league will be minus three Chapmans this coming season. Sam, of the Athletics, is an aviation cadet; Fred, of the same club, has been released to Toronto, and Ben, of the White Sox, has been appointed manager of Richmond of the Piedmont league.

Ed Miller, Boston Brave short-stop and Frank McCormick, of the Reds, were the only National leaguers to play the full 154 game schedule last season. . . . Heber Newsome, of the Red Sox, beat the White Sox seven straight times last season. . . . Jimmy Foxx says he likes John Rigney's fast one. Double XX collected three homers off the White Sox hurler last year. . . . Major league openers are only 56 days away.

Floor Card Here Tonight Colorful

Bessemer, New Castle Sure Of Tie For Section Togas By Winning

Assured of gaining at least a tie for the championship of Section 3 and Section 20 by winning, Standard bearers of New Castle high and Bessemer will empty their resourceful basketball kits here tonight in an effort to drink the sweet wine of triumph.

New Castle, which will operate on George Washington Junior High gym, flips against one of the smartest and toughest combos in the district. Since the setto is a "home fray" for the Bridenbaughmen, the localites have a point in their favor.

Despite a 31-28 New Castle nod over the Bridgers on January 20, the engagement has been stamped as a toss-up by district prognosticators.

Bessemer At Brookers

Bessemer will achieve the same result as New Castle by tumbling East Brook High in the Section 20 headliner. Since the tiff is booked for East Brook high gymnasium, the Cement City scanty clads face a stiff assignment.

Despite a 10 to 1 record in the loop, Bessemer cannot afford to lose. With Wampum and New Wilmington sitting in second place, a Bessemer setback would inject unexpected tension into the chase.

New Wilmington travels to East New Castle for a meeting with Shenango Township. The "Greyhounds" still entertain hopes of winding up on top or near the top.

Wampum's tussle at Union Township adds lustre to an already shining cage card. The Hennonmen, perched in second place with New Wilmington, will shoot the works to win and at the same time hope for a Bessemer defeat.

Mt. Jackson high's engagement with Princeton, at Princeton, completes tonight's basketball program.

With February nearing the stretch drive, local cage outfits are nearing the end of the trail. Section 3 and Section 20 both windup competition on Tuesday, February 24.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—Connie Mack's pitching staff for 1942 was intact today with the signing of Bill Beckman and Jack Hallet, husky young right-handers.

Dick Siebert, slugging first baseman, however, reported from his St. Paul home that if Mack's last contract was the final word he would rather quit baseball than sign up for the new season.

Leo. W. Hill Plans To Organize Veteran Rifle Shots For Match Thursday

Leo W. Hill, veteran rifle shot, today announced that he is attempting to organize the old time rifle shots in New Castle for a match on Thursday night with the New Castle Rifle club at the Cathedral range, at 7:30 o'clock.

Hill is of the opinion that a fine team can be secured from the follow list of former New Castle Rifle club shots and Nonpariel club shots: Ed McBride, Pat Patterson, Mike Black, Bill Houck, Bill McKeown, Curley Cramer, Waddington, Chester Dean, Harry Reynolds, Van Horn, Charles Giddings, Ruby Moore, Bill McKibben, Charley Pugh, Rod Davis, Chappy Eckles, Karl Rohrer, Red Mulcahy, Jack Harmer and Hank Weatherby. All of the men listed are invited to take part in the shoot Thursday evening.

A possibility exists that under the emergency circumstances that this group of older men could be organized for home defense guards owing to their expertness in the rifle field.

HE'S ABOUT DUE

Vern Kennedy, obtained by the Indians from Washington, hasn't had a good year since 1937 when he was with the White Sox.

Brooklyn Nudges Titan Five, 45-43

Westminster Falters In Waning Moments Of Play In Madison Square Garden

CHARLES GOLDBLUM STARS FOR TITANS

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Before 18,000 shieking cage devotees, Westminster college's tall Titans dropped a hair hoisting 45-43 decision to Brooklyn college, Monday night, in Madison Square Garden.

The fracas tickled the spines of the gallery, particularly so in the waning minutes of play when the Lawrence countians spurted to deadlock the score, 40-40, after allowing the big stem representatives to pull far away. Gussoff, Brooklyn's leading scorer with 14 points, gave his team the lead until the final horn. Westminster trailed at the half, 26 to 21.

In dropping their fourth decision of the season against a dozen triumphs, Coach Washabaugh's proteges won the plaudits of the fastidious court party with their fighting spirit.

Goldblum Stars

Charles "Goldie" Goldblum, the Titans' sensational freshman, who become eligible early yesterday morning when the two schools waived the freshman rule, again starred for Westminster. The 17-year-old Pittsburgher pocketed a half dozen fielders to emerge with high scoring honors. Ridl and Dale Dunmire followed with eight points each.

As mentioned above, Gussoff spearheaded Brooklyn's attack with 14 points.

With their invasion of the Garden an unsuccessful affair, Westminster's hopes of returning for the National Invitation tournament next month were practically squashed.

The Titans next proceed to Philadelphia where they meet Villanova college on Wednesday night.

SACRED HEARTS WIN

The Sacred Hearts basketball team walloped the West Side Loboes at the Arena floor last evening 100 to 50, in a free-scoring game. The scoring stars in the game were: Sheldone, Panella and Barlett for the Sacred Hearts. For games with the Sacred Hearts call 3425 and ask for Pete.

Diphtheria deaths were cut from 1,997 in 1939 to 1,457 in 1940—a saving of 540 lives, the Census Bureau reports. If similar gains were made each year, the disease could be wiped out by 1945.

Here is a chance of a lifetime . . . Would you like to have a dog that is really different . . . if you would then act at once on this opportunity. The American Red Cross . . . local chapter needs another item for the duration. It is impossible for anyone to buy good steel scissors and since this item is very important to those who sew, we were wondering if anyone had an extra pair of steel scissors that they would be willing to lend to the Chapter . . . they will be kept in repair and in good condition and will be returned after the emergency is over . . . Just call the Chapter House if you can help solve this problem. Phone 5084.

It seems that we were mistaken about the flag flying all night long or twenty-four hours per day. According to the rule book, the flag may fly all the time when the United States is at War. And while we are on the subject . . . it would be a good thing if those who have flags on display in the downtown district would have them cleaned often . . . the soot and rain and snow and the wind sure play havoc with a flag . . . and also according to the rule book . . . flags should not be sent to a commercial laundry to be washed but should be cleaned at home with loving care.

"James Clause . . . one of the south side's leading younger men . . . and who has just completed a stand with Major Bowes is back in the old home town and acting as M. C. at a local Cafe. He expects to further his career in Cleveland within a very short time."

Tomorrow is the 18th of February . . . the first day of lent . . . known as Ash Wednesday . . . and for those who are really up on their toes . . . lent means Hot Cross Bun time . . . What are you going to give up for the duration of Lent?

War News Has Market Effect

Market Irregular — Starts Lower But Support Is Given Later

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The stock market weakened today under the impact of additional unfavorable news on the war.

Losses generally were of modest proportoins, but some sections dropped sharply. Outstanding was the weakness in chemicals, tumbled 1 to 3 points to new 1941-42 bottoms.

Standard Oil of N. J., whose refinery in Aruba was shelled in yesterday's surprise submarine attacks along the Venezuelan coast, broke almost 2 points before meeting support.

DuPont led chemicals downward with a slump of more than 3 points, Dow Chemical dropped 2 and Air Reduction and Allied almost as much. All were at new lows.

A few leaders extended losses to more than a point as the noon hour was approached. Included were Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, American Airlines and Fajardo Sugar.

Rails resisted the downtrend for a time, but softened with the rest of the list in the second hour.

Hit "Boondoggling" In Civilian Defense

By WILLIAM S. NEAD
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Senate action to strip the office of civilian defense of "boondoggling" was expected today when a vote is taken on the $163,000,000 bill to provide funds for this much criticized agency.

Senate leaders sought to discourage debate on Miss Mayris Chaney, the $4,600-a-year dancer friend of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Melvyn Douglas, movie star, but they indicated that some rough and ready discussion on "frills and furbelows" was likely.

There was a possibility that some member may seek to offer an amendment to repeal the congressional pension grant, but this may be shunted to one side on a promise by the civil service committee to act promptly on a repeal bill.

Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn., in charge of the bill, which carries $100,000,000 to buy equipment for OCD, expressed belief that amendments in the measure and the advice given James Landis, OCD director, during hearings, will result in the organization spending more time preparing against bombing raids.

"We are not trying to 'get' anybody," explained McKellar. "We are in a serious situation. We don't think we have time or money to spend on non-essentials when we are trying to fight two of the greatest military powers the world has ever seen."

The bill contains the House amendment banning "dancing, fan dancing, street shows" and similar activities. It also limits the OCD appropriation to purchase of essential articles, requires Senate confirmation of those getting over $4,500 a year, and allocates the funds in the bill.

McKellar voiced hope that Landis, who only recently succeeded Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, as head of OCD, will curtail the volunteer participation and physical fitness activities.

Some friends of Mrs. Roosevelt, whose activities were criticized in the House, indicated that they may come to her defense. Sen. Pepper (D) Fla., denounced the attack on Mrs. Roosevelt.

ENEMY ALIENS REGISTERED HERE NOW TOTAL 331

Three hundred and thirty-one enemy aliens had been re-registered up to this morning in the government's current Identification Program for Italian, German and Japanese nationals.

New Castle post office clerks conducting the check said "about 25" of that group were of German birth and the remainder of Italian birth. Not one Japanese is expected to register here.

Clerk Wilbur Mayberry, chief of the four clerks assigned to the registration in the Civil Service room of the Federal building, said "the lines are growing longer every day". The office is open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Mayberry spoke of the many unreported changes in residence of the aliens reporting for their new cards.

"We find," he said, "that many are moving without notifying Washington—the law requires that. When an alien changes his address, he must give immediate notice to Washington, or be subject to penalties. Such is true in the new registration."

Mayberry has warned all applicants that the law is plain that Washington must be told if they change their address in the future.

'Y' Membership Chairman Picks Lieutenants For March Campaign

General Chairman J. Preston Flaherty today named Richard E. Rentz and Lee "Newt" Campbell as chief lieutenants for the March membership campaign of the New Castle Y. M. C. A.

Both Rentz and Campbell, leaders in previous drives, will head up divisions of 10 teams each. Included among the 10 in each will be both men's and boys' teams.

What looms as one of the most intensive membership efforts is the 1942 drive, which will run throughout March, although opening dinners will start off some of the solicitation before March rolls 'round. Goals have not been announced by General Secretary Robert L. Meermans.

Believing that the Y. M. C. A. contribution to community life is of greater importance now than in peacetime, Secretary Meermans expressed the aim of his board of directors this morning by declaring that "We expect to play a big factor in molding the physical strength of boys and young men in these crucial war days." In days like this, he said, strong bodies—and minds—are paramount.

Rentz, associated with The News, and Campbell, city fireman, will soon make known to Flaherty the personnel of the teams they will head.

AROUND CITY HALL

"In such days as we are now passing through it is fitting that we have Chief of Police Willis G. McMullen become a member of the Pennsylvania Police Chiefs' Association" said Mayor Charles B. Mayne when council met in city hall session, Monday. Other colleagues agreed with His Honor. The chiefs association meets with the FBI and problems which affect the lives and property of all communities are discussed and plans of action determined upon. The city will pay the chief's dues which are approximately $5.00, annually.

Arthur Harris, collector of parking meter deposits, on Monday presented a bond in the sum of $1,000, to city council.

Thomas Boyle, sergeant of police, is on day duty. He reported that since a request by Police Chief W. G. McMullen that trivial and unimportant calls be not telephoned police headquarters, there has been a cessation of many such calls. In war time a police telephone is vitally important and the chief some time ago requested No. 8 not be called unless on strictly police business.

William Bowen informed council Monday that inasmuch as operators of the city's mobile first aid unit are unprotected by insurance they are willing to turn the equipment over to the city and asserted further they will continue to operate the same in the welfare of anyone who needs assistance. Upon motion of Mayor Charles B. Mayne the proposal was submitted to Solicitor R. M. White. Should the city take over the equipment it is likely the city would carry compensation which is too high for the men to carry.

When solons convened formally in city hall Monday Safety Director D. O. Davies introduced an ordinance, containing all previous ordinances and tying them into one, affecting gasoline service stations. The measure has been brought uptodate and no one now will find it necessary to peruse half a dozen measures concerning the one thing to ascertain how the services can be installed. The present measure is patterned after state law.

When council met today in the municipal building they decided to act as a board of viewers to determine the accuracy of reports that several properties are nuisances and should be removed. Council affixed March 20 as the date of inquiry at the properties. Council reported that they had viewed a property at 601 State street and ordered it removed on or before March 20.

Miss Kathryn Boston, deputy city finance agent, reported to council approval had been given to contracts with the J. R. Rick Motor Car company for a 1½ ton Dodge truck and the Francis Motor Sales company for a Ford sedan at recent bid awards of $1,517 and $1,075, respectively. The city solicitor will scan the contracts following which it is anticipated delivery of the vehicles will be made.

Power Company Salvage Bureau Is Inaugurated

Employes Reclaim All Articles Possible To Re-use, It Is Announced

One of the most important functions of the Pennsylvania Power company nowadays is reclammation, hence a new department, salvage, has been started in the company's service building, South Jefferson street.

It is headed by Homer Long, veteran employe.

His task is to salvage for re-use every possible article needed by the line department for the maintenance and operation of the power system. Line crews bring in everything salvageable from their maintenance or rebuilding jobs.

However, the crap pile is small because in most cases the articles can be repaired for useful service again. Many of the 10,000 different items regularly stocked in the storeroom are made of metals that are urgently needed in the war program.

While the War Production Board has recognized the essential nature of utility service and granted priority rights for the procurement of materials, it is fully realized that every saving in material is a benefit to the war program.

Affects Entire Company

The "Save" campaign has permeated the entire power company organization. The necessity of saving rubber has forced the routing of service calls to reduce automobile mileage, and the management regretfully admits that some customer inconvenience may result from the possible delay in responding to calls. But, as one official stated, "Utilities are not given a blank check on tire use; under the present rationing regulations, tires may be procured for only certain of our trucks. By saving the tires on our cars we hope to continue to serve our customers adequately in the days that are ahead. We can't count on getting tires next year or the year after, any more than any other American citizen. We have to save every possible mile of driving."

"String saving" may be an almost forgotten habit, but saving paper, rubber bands, and paper clips has rapidly become an established custom among the company's office force. Envelopes for inter-department correspondence are used over and over again, and seemingly inconsequential suggestions have resulted in substantial savings of office supplies.

With shortage looming in many materials, new methods and substitutes are being considered. "Use less, save more" is the slogan that is constantly kept in mind in all of the company's operations.

Parents Hope Word From Ireland Nurse 'Reaches Us Today'

Parents of Lieut. Agnes Keane, New Castle nurse commanding a group of Fort Knox (Ky.) nurses accompanying the first American soldiers to Ireland, anxiously looked forward today to a letter from their daughter.

Without word from her since a cablegram announced their safe arrival, Mrs. Thomas Keane, the mother, said:

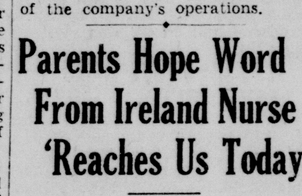

"With greater censorship in effect now, I guess we'll just have to wait—we're anxious for a letter, though. We're told it takes at least 28 days now for a letter to reach here. But we hope one comes today."

Friends of Miss Florence McBride, the Youngstown nurse for whom the convoy of transports halted in mid-Atlantic during the crossing while a surgical operation was performed, received word last week—word that she was fast recuperating, but that was about all. That letter took 28 days to reach the friends.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy! No Cooking.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is amazing for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. You'll say it's astounding in its action.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.
